

I Holland Celebrates 75 Years of Excellence

As the longest established tablet compression tooling manufacturer in the world, I Holland is celebrating its 75th anniversary. The company has reached this remarkable milestone due to their commitment to research, development and investment which has established the company as the pre-eminent supplier of punches and dies to producers of tablets across the globe. As a true British manufacturing success story, I Holland has built a reputation as a leading name in the pharmaceutical and nutraceutical industries. With proven experience, research and engineering know-how, the company now provide precision tooling solutions to thousands of customers in over 100 countries around the globe.

Alex Bunting, I Holland Marketing Manager said: “This is a significant milestone to reach and I am so proud of what we have accomplished in the last 75 years. We have achieved this landmark through the hard work and dedication of our team members and the customer-centric culture that exists throughout the company.

“In 1946 when I Holland began, the company set the industry standards for quality, lead time, support and value. To this day we stand by these values and always endeavour to raise the bar and be an industry front-runner.

“For over seven decades we have dedicated ourselves to continually research and develop innovative solutions for effective tablet compression and provide the highest quality tooling and technical support service. By listening to our customers and demonstrating agility in supporting their developing requirements we have built up a reputation as a leader in the field.

“We remain committed to continuing to deliver excellence in tablet compression tooling and look forward to building on the foundations which have been made over the last 75 years.”
